

POST PRESSED INDIGENOUS BOOKS LAUNCH

Tuesday November 8: 6.00 for 6.30 at the Talking Circle, The Queensland State Library, South Brisbane.

(see separate attachment for map and directions)

Post Pressed, e-content Management, and noted Indigenous scholar and researcher, Dr. Jackie Huggins, will be launching The More Things Change: The origins and impacts of Australian Indigenous exclusion by Dr. Rae Norris.

This is a superb work of scholarship, in plain language, addressing the institutional and ideological factors which have excluded Indigenous Australians in the past and which continue to inhibit Indigenous progress in the present. The thesis from which it was developed won the inaugural Griffith University Chancellor's Medal for Ph.D. research in 2007 and Rae is an Adjunct Research Fellow with the Centre for Governance and Public Policy at the Griffith University.

Following Rae's launch, will be the public launching of the ground-breaking Post Pressed and e-content Management series, Contesting Colonialism: Indigenous Knowledge and Indigenous Research by noted academic, writer and scholar Prof. Karen Martin. Karen is the only Indigenous person awarded a University medal for her PhD by research; it also won two scholarly awards. That work is published as part of this series. Coordinated by an editorial panel of five leading Indigenous scholars and academics, this series currently includes 13 titles -- see attached brochure -- and has several more waiting for publication.

Tuesday, Nov. 8, 6.00 for 6.30 - 9.00 in the Talking Circle at the State Library, Qld. Refreshments, of course. Do come, and do spread the word -- we really want to make an impact for these significant publications on one of the most important issues facing this nation.

All welcome!

RSVP by Tuesday, Nov. 01

John Knight: jwk@postpressed.com.au - 07 3849 5576

James Davidson: davidson@e-contentmanagement.com - 07 5435 2900

And even if you forget to RSVP, do come! Please pass this invitation to interested others too.

Sponsored by

www.e-contentmanagement.com

ABOUT POST PRESSED

Post Pressed is a niche publisher of specialist academic works. You can find us at www.postpressed.com.au and through our distributors, www.e-contentmanagement.com.

Post Pressed is honoured to be associated with the Contesting Colonialism editorial panel of Indigenous scholars -- Prof. Karen Martin, Prof. Veronica Arbon, Prof. Jenny Baker, Dr Linda Ford and Dr. Grace Sarra -- in the publication of the series Contesting Colonialism: Indigenous Knowledge and Indigenous Research.

Our commitment: Post Pressed acknowledges the First Peoples of the Countries that are now called Australia. Post Pressed is committed to respect and support Indigenous Sovereignty through the publication of Indigenous Knowledge.